You should totally help your kids with math. Sure, you haven't done it in 30 years but it'll come back. You're not too busy to learn.

You shouldn't reach out to GameFace Tutoring. Who cares they've been doing this since before your kid was born and their owner is a Radnor grad? Fighting with your kid about the Quadratic Formula builds character.

 RADNOR

DIRECTOR'S NOTES

I am honored to welcome you to our production of Legally Blonde: The Musical!

Meet Elle Woods, a young woman facing adversity and finding empowerment as she breaks the stubborn societal molds of stereotype and assumption. At first, she seeks the affections of a man; making it into Harvard Law is a mere item on a checklist. Elle discovers, however, that love can lead us on paths we cannot predict nor control - Elle's innate kindness and caring as well as her courage and intellect leads her to true love and friendship in addition to scholastic success. Elle's journey of feminine empowerment is not the only lesson here; Elle's kindness and caring for others fostered a supportive community upon which she herself could then rely upon. Perhaps we might add that page from her story to our own stories.

I am humbled and honored to work with incredible young people. The positive energy, passion, and joie de vivre among our students constantly reassures me that our world is in good hands; therefore, it is our task as educators and parents to provide space for them to thrive, to grow, and to wonder. I promise you that when we accomplish that, our world will be a better place when they take the reins!

Musicals and plays are incredibly complex to manage and to direct, and I am grateful for the incredible talent, dedication, and passion for our students that our staff brings to the table. Please indulge me with your time to celebrate some of these remarkable people working behind the scenes to enhance our Radnor Performing Arts community.

Mr. Tim Oskin is our miracle worker of set building, and has been serving our productions for almost ten years. Late hours, a few splinters, and a wise mentor for our young technicians, Tim's talents in education and theatre have been invaluable as well as his generous and paternal giving of those talents and time.

Mr. Scott Nye is a proud Radnor alum who gives so much of his time and wisdom in the effort to provide our students with training and experience, while at the same time enhancing our productions for the community. Scott has been doing so since his graduation over ten years ago! I was delighted to welcome Ms. Sam Roche as our choreographer, also a Radnor alum, whose grace, talent, and artistry onstage is surpassed only by her kind and caring heart. Ms. Baylee Whitebread, Stage Manager, is a Radnor graduate whom the students adore and whose laugh is infectious, working tirelessly to enhance the experience of our students (and keeping me on task!).

Ms. Nora McDonnell is a passionate and dedicated music educator who demands excellence of her students as well as herself, and I am honored to work alongside her as we raise the bar of excellence in RHS Performing Arts. Ms. Tatyana Oksyuk is on piano, sharing her passion and wonderful musicality, always positive and always asking what she can do for our students. Last, but I know our staff agrees not least by any measure, is Mrs. Alexis Braunfeld, a perpetually positive, kind, and caring "second Mom" to the students, whom I am deeply grateful to work with. Alexis has taken the lead on so many fronts, in costumes, publicity, budgeting... the list goes on, and has allowed me to focus that much more on our students and our community productions.

There are too many others to list that make a difference! The support of my colleagues and our administrators, parent volunteers, and students continue to help us bring these shows to life and make us Radnor proud! - Mr. Dietzler

NOTES FROM THE DIRECTOR'S INTERN

Legally Blonde is a story that is near and dear to many peoples' hearts. It is hard to find anyone who has never seen the iconic 2001 movie starring Reese Witherspoon that tells the story of Elle Woods, a girl who gets into Harvard Law School to win back her ex-boyfriend but eventually discovers her love of law instead. While working on this show I discovered myself the true "girl power" that drives this story. Elle Woods is an extremely strong woman, who finds over the course of the narrative that she does not need a man in her life, and that fighting for what is right makes her happy. She helps reunite her friend Paulette with her dog, and frees Brooke Wyndham from jail the RIGHT way, all while staying true to herself.

And, although Elle is able to achieve a lot of this on her own, she is backed up throughout the show by her strong female friendships. At the very top of the show we see the support that the girls of Delta Nu show for Elle, and the way that Margot, Serena, and Pilar are constantly there to encourage her throughout the story. They fly all the way to Harvard just to support their friend Elle in her goals. Once Elle gets to Harvard, she is separated from the girls of Delta Nu, but quickly finds a new friend in Paulette. Elle and Paulette help each other a lot throughout the story, and the support that they have for one another allows them to achieve their goals, Paulette marries Kyle, and Elle wins the case. This is a true testament to the strength and importance of female friendships for girls. Elle's friendship with Brooke gets Brooke out of jail, and Brooke helps Elle prove herself by giving Elle the opportunity to defend her. Even Vivienne, who spends most of the show despising Elle, shows friendship towards her at the end and encourages her to come back to the case. Elle spends the show surrounded by people like Warner and Callahan (and for most of the show Vivienne) who want to see her fail, but she is surrounded by other strong woman who encourage her and help her achieve her goals.

Elle does get Emmett in the end, but its not the culmination of her story. Her story is about finding herself and her own strength, and she is able to achieve this because of the women who surround her. "We girls need to stick together" really encapsulates the show, and shows that girls helping girls leads to a win. - Quinn O'Donovan
